

Presentation at a conference table

T. Tarpy Schulten (right), vice president of the Bath office, Canal National Bank, and a trustee of Hyde School recently called on Joseph W. Gauld (center), headmaster at the Hyde School in Bath, and presented Hyde School with a magnificent 25 foot conference table and a stock certificate for $1,435 on behalf of the Canal National Bank. The conference table, for years a fixture in the directors room of the Canal National Bank was replaced by a more modern conference table when the bank recently remodeled and redecorated its directors room in the main office at Middle Street in Portland. Gauld acknowledged the gifts with words about the table providing an excellent work space for library study and the money will help with the new sports center that is being built at the Hyde School. Leonard Mulligan (left), also a trustee at the Hyde School, was present and echoed Gauld's sentiments.
